Trish Carr, "Wow Wednesday: Why I am in Love with My Wrinkles with Alexandra Levin

She believes everyone should "Live your life as a self-expression of having already arrived."

MAJOR MILESTONES

She immigrated from communist Russia. Her family had been trying to leave for 13 years, & at 19 she received permission from the Russian government to leave, without her family.

Giving birth to her first daughter was the beginning of a new phase of her life. Her purpose became to provide a fertile & empowering ground for her children to grow and experience life.

Her second divorce shifted her life once again. Her daughters were grown & she was able to focus on creating the second half of her life & making a contribution to the world.
